

West Carolina Rural Telephone McCormick, South Carolina

West Carolina Rural Telephone Cooperative requested that it was important that the building design express the Owner's cutting edge technology and to establish WCRTC's new presence within the Town of McCormick. In order to direct customers to WCRTC's new products, services, and customer care center, the main entrance lobby and its adjacent customer service areas are positioned along a diagonal axis through the building. In addition, large diagonally stepped windows located along the façade and entry of the building provide exceptional day lighting to the interior as well as provide a welcoming openness to the public. Other areas within the facility include office areas, file rooms, an employee coffee bar and break area, storage areas, mechanical and electrical support services, and a telephone equipment room servicing the local communications provided by WCRTC.
